 Melissa Stone Lawsuit a scam and bs

December 29, 2014 at 11:13pm

 Logans Offtheclock This isn't bs or a scam if you think call the law office for yourself. The number is on the website. You can look up case bradford and bolein vs. Logan's roadhouse filed in Nashville in middle in district court. This is just early stage to sign up or you will be eventually be getting something in mail concerning this.

 Melissa Stone What im saying is I worked for logans in store and on road for 10 yrs they do not ever permit such things they r excellent to their employees

December 30, 2014 at 1:56pm

 Logans Offtheclock I've worked with them six all in our corporate store and in Nashville In and they have done these type of things in entire time. I've also worked in two other stores and the same thing applies. Out of the 20 states are restaurants are in that are non franchises I have 14 states saying they have done such things. They don't pay you minimum wage when opening/closing store, they have made You claim tips to make up for tip shortages, some have been told not to clock in before first table and clock out at lastable and work for free. If they haven't done some of these things to you that's fine but it would be hard for me to believe. Just to let you know its going to be a huge lawsuit with the amount of people we have already.

To those that have signed up on www.logansofftheclock.com, If you have spoken with the attorney please send your papers in that they have sent you. It's really important that you do, so we can make this has big as we can. If the attorney has contacted you, it could be that you just signed up. I know some have said that they sent papers in, but as of yesterday we still haven't received some of you.

To everyone signed up for logans roadhouse off the clock lawsuit, the lawyers need your paperwork in so the statute of limitations doesn't run out. He's having a meeting this wk with judge and their lawyers. So he will need your papers rather quickly. Don't miss out on the money that logans owes you. For some it could be a substantial amount. If you have any questions please don't hesitate to ask me or contact his office. Some say they have sent paperwork in, but his office hasn't received it. Your more than welcome to check with me to see if all your paper work is completed and in his office.

February 24 at 11:20am · △ 1

Logans Offtheclock When you sign up on website the attorney will send out paperwork for you to sign, one will be declaration of the violations that occurred to you, a consent form for them to represent you in the case, and a fee agreement showing that the attorney gets pd only a % of settlement and that's it.

February 28 at 8:51am

Logans Offtheclock What they are doing to us is and is borderline harassment. I've had several people from Louisville, Kentucky store that migrants were telling them it was a privilege to work there and if they didn't like doing what they were told to hit the door.

To anyone that has signed up for wage/labor, thank you very much. Please understand even though you signed up on the website, the lawyer still needs the paperwork signed and sent back. He is filling for conditional certification within next wk and this is a huge step in this process. If you have taking the time to sign up, its worth the time to send paperwork back in. This process wont cost you a penny, so take advantage while you can. Please feel free to ask me if they have your paperwork, as I have an updated list.

To everyone that has signed up or has looked into the logans wage/labor lawsuit thank you. Wanted to give everyone an update, the attorney left me a message today saying he is finishing up paperwork to file for conditional certification next week. This means the lawsuit will go nationwide. So those of you that haven't sent your paperwork please do so and those who are hesitating please look into getting signed up. If you have any questions please feel free to ask.

To those that have signed up on logans off the clock, thank you. Wanted to give everyone an update on the case. The lawyer is filing the conditional certification this wk, that means he is asking the judge to make logans turn over all information to all tipped employees so they can be contacted to join lawsuit. To join the lawsuit you must send back all the paperwork they sent you. I know we have had to resend some to people, but it's back sent back out. Those that recently signed up, your paperwork is being worked on. But please understand you must send this back in to get your settlement. If you have any questions please feel free to ask.

Wanted to give everyone an update on the Logan's off the clock lawsuit. Our attorney and Logan's new Attorney out of California had a conference with the judge on Thursday. He come in wanting all kind of things, but was rejected on everything. He asked for a 30 day extension but was rejected, he asked certain people to come into Nashville for dispositions and was rejected. Our attorney did allow them to mail out dispositions to those people as long as he knew what was being asked and agreed to them. So he said this would take the next 30 days for this to be sent out. There isn't anything that Logan's can do at this point to keep this from getting big, so they are coming up with everything they can think of. So for those that have ~~sent paperwork back~~, we thank you again and for those that have signed up please send that paperwork back in to join. Just signing up on website doesn't just get you in, they do need signed paperwork. So if you have any questions, please feel free to ask.
